General Chair’s Message

The State University of New York, and in particular the Department of Computer Science and Department of Electrical Engineering, are very happy to welcome you to Buffalo. We are very honored to host this major international conference which is sponsored by various wings of two major professional bodies, IEEE and ACM. It marks an important step for the VLSI program in our university and I believe it will receive the impetus it so richly deserves to grow and improve.

I would like to thank: the local IEEE Chapter for the help in advertising the conference locally; my colleagues Professor R. Sridhar, Professor S. Upadhyaya and Professor V. Demjanenko, whose tireless effort has contributed very significantly to organize this conference; and the University administration for providing the needed financial assistance. I hope the weather co-operates with us. Even without that we have extrememly good technical sessions, a panel discussion and tutorials.

We hope that we will be able to provide an informal atmosphere where ideas can be exchanged freely. I hope you will be able to take back with you some good memories about Buffalo and our University.

Professor Sreejit Chakravarty
General Chair, GLSVLSI 95
